About Ourselves :

Saraswat Prachyavidya Mahasangha is established with the mission of revival for different "Oriental" arts, science and languages by research, culture and scientific advancement. Oriental Martial Arts is a science and philosophy in itself with a rich history of evolution in techniques with demographic influence, schools and organizational structures.

A brief Introduction of Karate-do (The Way of Empty Hand) :

The word Karate (Kara-te) comprises of two Japanese Kanji letters, i.e. Kara - means Empty/Void and 'Te' - means Hand. The meaning of Empty is much more comprehensive and philosophical. A Karate-ka (practitioner of Karate) is mentally and physically complete, strong, robust but humble and respectful, devoid of violence, envy and all negative feelings. Our founder (of Shotokan Karate) Master Gichin Funakoshi, is considered the 'Father of Modern Karate' and the term 'Karate' is also coined by him. Shotokan ryu/style/school or 'gharana' is the first martial art's style/school which was officially included in university curriculum by the Education Ministry under Government of Japan.

Shotokan Karate is a dynamic stream of studies where continuous research work is being done globally and now it's a separate discipline of studies for practitioners and academicians all over the world.

This proposal letter is for your kind perusal and approval.

Thanking you
Yours sincerely
